

Assisted Hearing Devices Debut & Availability

For our hearing impaired attenders, HEARING ASSISTED DEVICES ARE AVAILABLE on the narthex counter. The Digital-1 receiver makes the audio more intelligible. Using digital channel selection, the Digital-1 ensures the receiver will stay locked on to a particular frequency regardless of normal changes in humidity, temperature, or rough handling.

Telecoil Neck Loop is available now. The telecoil neck loop is an inductive listening aid designed for hearing aid users. The loop is worn around the neck to transmit the electromagnetic energy of the audio signal to the hearing aid and is compatible with any hearing aid equipped with Telecoil. A telecoil is a special circuit inside the hearing aid. It is simply a small coil of wire designed to pick up a magnetic signal.

Telecoils can only fit in two styles of hearing aids: In-The-Ear and Behind-The-Ear aids, and they must be “telecoil equipped”. Smaller hearing aids are not large enough to fit the telecoil. Contact your hearing aid manufacturer or audiologist to determine if your hearing instrument is telecoil capable. The neckloop can be worn as a neck ornament or put under shirt or blouse. The neckloop plugs into the FM radio ear phone slot. The hearing aid must be changed from the Microphone (M) setting to the Telecoil (T) setting, or the MT combined setting. Neckloops provide only mono sound, not stereo.

Warning: A neckloop should not be worn by people with pacemakers or other medical devices sensitive to magnetic fields. As with all loops worn around the neck, please be careful of getting into a situation where the loop could cause choking.
